

TRAINING COURSE

EASA Part-66/147

Introduction

---

The training course aims to provide representatives of Industry and National Aviation Authorities working knowledge and understanding of Annexes III (Part-66) and IV (Part-147) to Implementing Rule EU 1321/2014 and the corresponding AMC and GM material including The Technical Requirements (Section A) and the Procedures for Competent Authorities (Section B) of Parts 66 and 147.

The two-day Part-66/147 training course reviews Part-66/147 in detail and elaborates on the role and functions of the EU Member States. It covers Annexes III and IV to Implementing Rule EU 1321/2014 and the corresponding AMC and GM materials in detail. The Technical Requirements (Section A) and the Procedures for Competent Authorities (Section B) of Parts 66 and 147 are dealt with separately in a structured way. This makes the training useful for both new and experienced professionals from industry and authorities.

The attendants receive handouts of all presentations.

Part-66 (Annex III) Aircraft Maintenance Licence requirements. Detailing Basic licence, type training, OJT and the role of the National Aviation Authorities. Including the changes on the examination process and the OJT, introduced with EU 2023/989.

Part-147, the requirements for a Maintenance Training Organisation. Including the impact of the regulation change introduced with EU 2023/989 for approved Maintenance Training Organisations (Basic and Type), on the basic examination process and for the Type training process.

Touching also the different training methods introduced based on new technology.

The course material is used throughout the training, which eliminates the need to present the full texts from the regulation on the presentation slides. These only summarise the main points of the requirements and are based on the trainer's knowledge of the requirements and experience in the application. Questions from the attendants and mutual discussions are encouraged, which makes the training more interactive and lively, increasing understanding and learning.
